WORLD CONFERENCE ON BREAST CANCER

JULY 13-17, 1997
KINGSTON, ONTARIO, CANADA

KINGSTON BREAST CANCER
CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

PRELIMINARY PROGRAM

INVITATION

On behalf of the World Conference On Breast Cancer, I would like to invite everyone with concerns about breast cancer to attend this meeting. I am confident that you will find a great deal in the program to interest you. Some topics will be familiar, others new and compelling. It will be a great privilege to host this unique conference and to come together with concerned delegates from around the world in the fight against breast cancer.

Karen Weisbaum, President

Kingston Breast Cancer Conference Committee, Kingston Ontario Canada

and

Bella Abzug, President & Co-founder

*Women's Environment & Development Organization (WEDO),
New York*

Bella Abzug, a former US Congresswoman, is a leading women's rights advocate, civil rights lawyer, public speaker, writer, founder and co-chair of the Women's Environment & Development Organization (WEDO), an international network with consultative status at the United Nations.

Bella devotes her energies to a wide range of women's issues. Breast Cancer became a focus of Bella's attention in March 1993, when WEDO, together with the New York City Commission on the Status of Women, which Bella chaired for 2 years, held a public hearing on Breast Cancer and the Environment that heard testimony from physicians, scientists, women's health specialists, activists and people with breast cancer, on the links between the breast cancer epidemic and exposure to chemical pollutants and radiation. Under Bella's leadership, WEDO has launched a national campaign in the US in partnership with Greenpeace and grassroots women's cancer groups entitled "Women, Cancer and the Environment Action for Prevention".

PURPOSE / THEME and TOPICS

Breast cancer is not just a medical or scientific problem. To defeat breast cancer will require involvement from the global community. In addition to early detection, funding, and support programs, the community must promote policies and research that looks to prevention as the key to overcoming this disease.

The World Conference on Breast Cancer will involve representatives from every aspect of Breast Cancer with plenaries, concurrent sessions, and workshops in the following topics:

- Prevention/Environment/Ethics
- Treatment and Care
- Research/Science/Medicine
- Support and Advocacy
- Alternative/Complimentary Therapies
- Multicultural Issues
- Lesbians and Breast Cancer
- Men and Breast Cancer
- The Politics of Breast Cancer
- Genetics/Bio-Ethics/Law
- The Media and Breast Cancer

The Conference will seek to address these issues by involving representatives from the whole spectrum of Breast Cancer, and will seek to discover what is being done, what is not being done, what needs to be done, what other issues face women diagnosed with Breast Cancer, and how they manage their day to day living with a life threatening disease.

Response to the conference so far shows that there is an overwhelming interest and an urgent need to continue dialogue between groups on this global level. Submissions and enquiries have already been received from around the world (over 40 countries to date) as well as across Canada. We hope that the result will be education and continued visibility of breast cancer, exploring the complex links between different perspectives and components of the disease, and especially the continuation of dialogue among those with personal, political and professional connections to breast cancer. Accordingly, the conference theme is:

Break the Silence - Stop the Epidemic:
Opening the Doors to Dialogue Around the World
